

Ophthalmology Products- Brand and Generic names

The following list provides the branded and generic names for ophthalmology preparations listed in the HEY Joint Formulary indicated for long term use. With agreement from Secondary care all treatment requests using the brand name can be prescribed by primary care using the generic name unless the request has a specified reason for prescribing the brand. Prescribing under generic names can provide cost efficiencies for some lines and reduces the risk of duplicate prescribing under both the brand and generic names.
